Kelpie Terrace		Ardán Kelpie	A Kelpie is a Scottish water sprite. In common with many Coalisland / Newtownkelly streets there was a ship in the service of Kelly Shipping of the same name (1906 -1915), there is a possible connection (www.kellyshipping.co.uk/history-ship.htm). Kelpie could have been translated as Each Uisce 'water horse' as they are known in Scottish Gaelic.	Coalisland South
Kettle Lane		Lána Mhic Choitil	Kettle Lane may be named after T. M Kettle (1880-1916), former Home Rule MP for East Tyrone, the book around Dungannon contains a picture of 'Kettle's election rooms' (Around Dungannon, p. 15), Ó D. gives Mac Coitil , Coitil being a Gaelicisation of a Norse personal name (MacLysaght, p. 178) [cf. Kettle's Lane, Fingal, Co. Dublin].	Coalisland West and Newmills
Kilcoole Drive		Céide Choill an Choill	Kilcoole is not a locally occurring place-name and it must be assumed that it has being newly composed. Coolhill townland, Killeeshil, Co. Tyrone, is frequently spelt Coolkill in the anglicised historical spellings and it would seem that Kilcoole is based on this form, with the elements reversed! Coolhill / Coolkill is from the Irish Collchoill 'hazelwood' (TLD), therefore the Irish form of Kilcoole would be Coill an Choill .	Coolhill
Kildara Close		Clós Chill Dara	There is no Kildara to be found locally and would appear to be newly composed, it is clearly intended to represent the Irish Cill Dara 'church of the oaktree' [Kildare - Cill Dara , (OL Contaetha agus Cúigí)].	Coalisland South

Moyallen Terrace		Ardán Mhaigh Álainn	Moyallen is not a locally occurring place-name, but it could be a variant of Moyallon, Tullylish, Co. Down, which is from the Irish Maigh Alúine 'plain of Alum' (PNI vol. VI) but which had been re-interpreted as Maigh Álainn 'beautiful plain' (JO'D OSNB). It is also possible that it has been newly composed using elements of the local place-names, the first from Moygashel (TL), Clonfeacle, Co. Tyrone, from the Irish Maigh gCaisil 'plain of the stone ring-fort' (Dict. Ulst. PN) and the second from Tullyallen, Donaghmore, Co. Tyrone, from the Irish Tulaigh Álainn 'beautiful hillock' (TLD). Therefore Moyallen represents the Irish Maigh Álainn .
